"Yakutat" has New Command

The biting March wind failed to chill the warmth of the farewell as the captain of the Yakutat, Commander Royal E. Grover, Jr. was relieved by Commander William C. Nolan of Pine Island Road, Mattapoisett, on Thursday, March 13th, in New Bedford.

Commander Grover (top left cover) spoke of the duty in the Pacific which he and his men had shared. He said that his command of the Yakutat had been the highlight of his career and of his pride in the ship's company, all of whom had received a unit citation as a result of action in Viet Nam waters.

Commander Nolan, who has served as executive officer since June, is shown

WE SALUTE OUR FRIENDS DEDICATED TO CONSERVATION

This year's theme, "Provide Habitat - Places Where Wildlife Live," brings to mind the generous gift of the N. Floyd Tinkham Forest to the town of Mattapoisett and the many other citizens of our area towns who are working diligently to preserve nature's balance and beauty. The growth of our towns is inevitable, but the loss of precious natural sites is not. It is to this end that our local Conservation Commissions are working. We thank you and salute you.

INTRODUCTION TO CAST OF "OLIVER!"

A cast of over fifty Old Rochester students is enthusiastically rehearsing the smash hit musical show, "Oliver!" For this sixth major musical production in the school's brief history, there are two significant innovations, First, the musical accompaniment for this show, rather than the mere piano of past productions, is a carefully selected ensemble of fourteen very talented orchestral students, assembled and directed by Mr. Anthony Rego. It is a joy to observe this group in rehearsal. The youthful musicians are incredibly smooth and sophisticated in their readings of the score, and Mr. Rego demonstrates a truly magical gift of conducting. The second innovation is the fact that the Junior High segment of Old Rochester is very definitely a part of the show this year. The entire Junior Chorus of seventh and eighth graders has been recruited as Oliver Twist's fellow waifs in the opening numbers of the show. Those youngsters in-- volved are understandably enchanted to be included in the excitement of show production, and just incidentally, they are utterly delightful in their ardent zeal of participation. Thus, this is the very first show that encompasses the entire Old Rochester student body, from grades seven through twelve.

The title role of Oliver has been assigned Christine Glaeser of Marion. That this glamorous Wareham Junior Miss of 1969, who placed fourth in the state competition for Massachusetts Junior Miss, can convincingly enact the role of the forlorn orphan, Oliver, Twist, is a testimony to her acting ability. Her stage credits are numerous and include performances in "South Pacific", "Camelot," "Diary of Anne Frank," and most recently in "Opening Night". This versatile senior plays first violin in the school orchestra, is Drama Club president, and has sung with the Southeastern District Chorus for two years. She is further recognized as one of the top girl athletes of the area, and has won numerous sports and fitness awards. Her poignant portrayal of Dickens' immortal Oliver Twist is keenly effective. Don't miss it!

("Oliver!" introduction to be continued next week.)

Junior Grange

Mattapoisett Juvenile Grange held its bimonthly meeting last Friday night with the worthy master, Mark Breton, presiding.

Honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Joseph Alcobia, the honored young Grange couple of the year for the State of Massachusetts; and Robert Ouellette, master of Sippican Pomona. All complimented the Juniors.

Under new business it was voted to change the date of the degree from April 11th to April 25th in order to give more time to the Juniors for preparation. Any girl or boy age 5 to 14 years who would like to become a member of the Junior Grange can contact Harlene Fearing, membership chairman. Applications must be in by April 11th.

A donation to the State Grange heifer project will be sent. James Livsey gave his agriculture report. Harlene Fearing reported 23,699 cancelled stamps have been collected. Mary Beth Breton reported on cards she has sent patients at the Mattapoisett Nursing Home, honoring their birthdays.

Kathy Buckley announced her ways and means committee will have a candy sale at the March 28th meeting. The lecturer's march was won by Matthew Buckley.

Lecturer Harris presented agriculture chairman, James Livsey to present the program. He recited 3 poems: A.Tree, Petunia and

Our School Dilemma

PART II

THE CASE FOR REGIONALIZATION

by Robert D. Marso of Marion, Member of Old Rochester Regional School Committee.

Quality Education has represented a Commonwealth commitment from Colonial Days to the present. What once constituted quality education, however, is quite different from quality education today. Anyone who feels that the type of education which was good enough for him is still good enough for his children is in for a rude awakening. Preparation required for the world of work in the 70's is far different from that of the 40's and 50's. There is a steadily decreasing demand for workers with little education and a constant increasing demand for broadly educated workers whether they be engineers, mechanics, doctors or sales people. This demand puts an ever growing burden on the school system, which in turn puts a greater burden on the taxpayers. It is the purpose of this article to show that the best way to provide a Quality Education for today's needs with a minimum burden to the taxpayers is through the Regional School approach.

We in Mattapoisett, Rochester and Marion took a very forward looking step in 1958 when the Old Rochester Regional School District was formed. The next obvious step is to expand this region to include some of the lower grades. Why should we do this? What are some of the advantages of regionalization?

Grouping of students according to their ability is a desirable goal to all educators.

The fast learner is frustrated if forced to wait for the slower learner in his classroom to grasp a point. Similarly, the slower learner is frequently embarrassed in contrast with his peers and hesitates to ask questions about that which he does not understand. The larger class base possible with the three towns combined, makes it economically practical to have enough divisions so that there can be grouping according to ability. The present sixth grade, for example, consists of 178 children: 35 children in Rochester, 68 in Marion, and 75 in Mattapoisett. Obviously, dividing any one town's sixth grade into more than three levels would be difficult to justify yet the 178 can easily be divided into six levels and children grouped on the levels according to ability.

A second advantage which is a corollary of the first is better utilization of teachers and teaching space. Each teacher and each classroom can be more fully utilized if the artificial divisions of town boundaries are removed and a full complement of students is assigned to each teacher in each classroom. Studies indicate that in the proposed new Middle School (assuming exactly the same curriculum and teacher loads would prevail as would prevail in the three individual town schools) eleven fewer teachers would be needed under regional auspices.

A third advantage is quality and variety of course offerings without excessive cost. With a large enough student body to fill their day remedial reading, and remedial writing teachers, guidance counselors, vocational introductory teachers, music and art instructors can be economically employed. If all three towns were to offer these courses individually, the costs would obviously be much greater.

There are fringe benefits that a regional school brings to the adults of the Community as well as the children. These are benefits that none of our three communities could afford as well on its own. In this area, the fine gymnasium at O.R.R., the night school courses, the concerts, the large auditorium, the well stocked library are but a few examples.

Another obvious advantage to the elementary child of the Regional approach to Elementary Education in our three towns is that all of these children will have equal preparation when they finally come together in the Junior-Senior High School.

The foregoing are but a few of the many varied advantages that can be noted for Regional Schools. Critics claim that an individual Community gives up its rights to control its children's education when it joins a region. A careful study of regional schools in general and O.R.R. in particular shows that far from giving up control, a community actually gains the rights and ability to give its children a far superior education than it could afford on its own.

The Region is presently producing a well educated graduate, and when the grades included in the Region are extended it will produce an even better graduate -- a graduate who is well equipped to compete in either the college world or the world of work.

Note: Letters in response to columns in this series are encouraged.

Final Concert March 30

FINAL CONCERT OF SEASON SCHEDULED

The Regional Symphonic Band will present the final concert of the 1968-69 season on March 30th at 3:00 P.M. in the auditorium of the Old Rochester Regional High School.

Mr. John R. Pandolfi, conductor, has planned a program which will include the "1812 Overture" by Tschaikowsky and the very contemporary "Festive Overture" by Shostakovich. These and other musical numbers arranged for the symphonic band will be ably played by the 50-member professional and amateur band.

Mr. Pandolfi also gives talented high school students of the area the opportunity of playing with the band and singles them out for recognition: from Old Rochester Regional High, Cynthia Bell, clarinet; Michael King and Paul Soares, percussion; from Wareham High, Robert Sabourin, trombone; from New Bedford High, John Gomes, trumpet; Robert Chandler, percussion; Gerald Costa and Steven Moniz, clarinets; from Bishop Stang High, John Martin, trumpet; and from Dartmouth High, Cheryl Allen, cornet.

The Tower of Strength

"HISTORY OF FORT PHOENIX"
by Donald R. Bernard
Part XVIII

Following the dedication of the "Fearing Boulder", the Fort Phoenix area was to become one of the most popular spots in the Greater New Bedford area, not only for its fine beach area and beauty, but also because of the fact the Grimshaw family became widely famous over the years for their outstanding clambakes. Following the turn of the century, a dance pavilion was in operation across the river on Palmer's Island. The Grimshaws constructed a dock and boat house on the beach area, facing Palmer's Island. They rented boats to people wishing to venture across the river to the island.

The fortress had no role to play during World War I. Her confines were subject only to picnickers, bathers and lovers.

The next year to furnish any excitement was on November 11, 1918, when the celebration of Armistice Day was in full swing. Some over enthusiastic person or persons set fire to the last remaining building at the Fort, that being the same house William V. Dean was born in as stated in an earlier article.

The year 1933 was probably the most important year of any significance in modern times as far as Fort Phoenix and the town of Fairhaven are concerned. For it was on the date of June 2, 1933 the reservation was given to the town as a gift from "The Lady Fairhaven", Mrs. Urban H. Boughton of England. She was the daughter of Henry Huttleston Rodgers, the benefactor of Fairhaven. Her gift, which she purchased from the United States Government for the sum of $5,000.00, was presented in memory of her late father. On the tablet that was attached to the great ledge at the fort reads the following inscription: "This tablet erected by the Town of Fairhaven in appreciation of the gift by the Lady Fairhaven of the historic Fort Phoenix reservation in memory of her father, Henry H. Rodgers who loved this spot and its traditions. 1930" The reservation then became a part of the Fairhaven park system.

On that June afternoon Mr. William M. Allen acted as chairman for the day. Mr. F. Eben Brown, chairman of the Board of Selectmen, accepted the gift in behalf of the town. Other speakers were George H. Tripp, who related a brief history of the fort; Mr. Thomas A. Tripp, who spoke of "The Lady Fairhaven"; and Mr. Henry T. Gidley who represented the Fairhaven Improvement Association. Rounding out the festivities was Lazarus Alexion, a student of the 8th grade who related the sentiment of the school children and for the Junior Improvement Association. The day proved to be highly successful as related to me by Lindsey S. Gifford, now a retired pipefitter who was employed by the Revere Copper and Brass Company of New Bedford. He went on to say that he could recall that following the ceremonies, "The Lady Fairhaven" retired to her waiting yacht and upon departure from the harbor, hundreds of school children lined the fort area, all waving little American Flags clutched in their hands, in a touching good-bye and thank you gesture.

With the advent of World War II, the old fortress was again called upon to serve her country. This time, however, not as an active fort, for her days of military glory and the singing of her thunderous guns was but now a mere fact of history. Erected within the confines by Post 166 of the American Legion was a Civil Defense observation tower. It stood in the area of the present flag pole. This tower was under the direction of the local Civil Defense officials. This observation tower was manned 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, with a direct telephone line to Boston where an interceptor wing of the Air Force was ready at a moment's notice to intercept any foreign aircraft. Following the war, this tower quickly faded and it too became but a mere segment of the fort's history.

Seminar Thursday

POSTPONED CRIME SEMINAR

The recent report on the rise in the crime rate in many localities, including New Bedford, makes the postponed Seminar on Crime of even more importance to everyone in this area. Sponsored by the Mattapoisett Woman's Club, the seminar, which had to be postponed due to the recent snowstorms, has been rescheduled for Thursday, March 20th, from 10 A.M. to 2 P.M. at the Mattapoisett Congregational Church parish hall.

There has been one change in the list of speakers for the day. Mr. John J. Buckley is unable to be here, but the Woman's Club is very pleased to be able to have in his place Mrs. Louis J. Camarra of West Boylston. Mrs. Camarra, in addition to being chairman of the West Boylston planning board and Legislative chairman of the Worcester League of Women Voters, is also on the special advisory board for the State Department of Education studying experimental schools. She was formerly on the education committee of the League of Women Voters at which time a study was made of juvenile offenders, a study which led Mrs. Camarra to a deep interest in the subject. Thus, her topic will be "Juvenile Courts".

The remainder of the seminar will be as formerly scheduled: Mr. David Haley, chairman of the Mattapoisett Board of Selectmen, will extend a greeting, followed by Mrs. Arthur Dunn, chairman of the Massachusetts Federation of Women's Clubs Legislative Department, who will introduce Mrs. Camarra. Other speakers are Attorney Francis W. Keating whose subject will be "Area Crime Control"; Assistant Attorney General George V. Higgins, who will speak on "Organized Crime". "The Local Effort to Control Crime" will be the topic of the final speaker of the day, Mr. Harry Schmitt, Jr., regional attorney for Mattapoisett, Marion and Wareham.

Each speaker will answer questions at the end of his talk and suggest ways in which the townspeople can help to combat crime. The public is invited, or rather urged to attend this seminar which offers an unusual opportunity for a citizen to learn the facts from a group of authorities.
